"Account of the Town of Boston, Written in 1817"
by Shubael Bell, - from the manuscript in the possession of the American Antiquarian Society, Worcester.

p. 61:

There is an extensive manufactory of glass at Chelmsford, through which place passes the Middlesex Canal; the best of crown window glass, chemical apparatus and apothecaries' ware, bottles and phials are manufactured cheaper than can be imported. I have seen from the Boston Manufactory services of the best ground and cut flint equal to any from England.

1 gavel:

A Mount Vernon walnut tree was destroyed by a storm. This gavel is made of wood obtained from this tree by Mr. Callahan, a Past Grand Master of Masons in Virginia. He laid the cornerstone of the National Masonic Memorial in Alexandria, where he lived.

x2a candlestick:

x2b candlestick:

striped wood from timber that grew on bank of Potomac River; hand-hewed and framed into White House roof after British burned it in 1814. After 112 years of service over 26 Presidents, it was removed, in 1927, during the administration of President Calvin Coolidge. 80 ?

- 81 wheel
wooden pulley & piece of rope: part of water system long in use in the Emerson home on Westford St. previous to the introduction of the town water system. The pulley was located on the second floor over the kitchen. A 60' rope made it possible to bring a bucket up from the cellar to the end of the kitchen sink. The water was so far below the sink that a suction pump would not raise it.

"This is a genuine rear seat driver, built by the Waltham Auto Company in 1911, but I bought it in 1911 second hand for $600. It is a steamer.
This car is one of 12 total production. The tires ~~are~~ 2-1/2 x 28 were solid. All lights on it were kerosene oil. It had a 2 cylinder upright mason engine and boiler under the back seat."
It was owned by Wilfred W. Greene of North Chelmsford
This car came out about 3 years before the Stanley Company started.
